

Work books, Visual diaries and Journals

Work books

The following examples of pages from Work books, Visual Diaries and Journals were produced by senior art students, some of them my own (see images below this text).

They show different approaches that have been taken to keeping these records. Further examples will be added regularly.

If you have excellent examples of such work and would like them included on this site please send me a copy via email max@artseducationguru.com

Alternatively, you can leave a message in the space provided below the images and I will get back to you. Additional contact details can be found in the side menu item Contact Max.

This file can be cross-referenced to the file titled Student Visual Diaries or Workbooks found in the side menu item Articles. On that site the reasons for maintaining these forms of documentation, and different ways of managing them, are clearly outlined. Worksheets for use in the work book, diary or journal can be also be found under the Articles site – for example, Art History Worksheet, Studio Workheet, Art Analysis Worksheets and Gallery Worksheet.

The images will take a minute to upload. To progress or to return to a previous image just click on the arrows each side of the main image.
